World Water Day March 22 ,2022

The value of water is about much more than its economic value – water has enormous and complex value for our households, food, culture, health, education, economics and the integrity of our natural environment. If we overlook any of these values, we risk mismanaging this finite, irreplaceable resource. Without a comprehensive understanding of water's true, multidimensional value, we will be unable to safeguard this critical resource for the benefit of everyone. An employee of the college, Dibyendu Sardar was entrusted to campaign among people with a van to announce about the initiative that the college has undertaken and a few major issues were made public to aware then as to how to curb the misuse of drinking water in particular and water in general. Pamphlets were also distributed.
